SPAL presents Scholarship to Harper Adams University student

On May 11th SPAL UK MD Matthew Morris was delighted to be in-person to present a £2,500 Scholarship to deserving Harper Adams University student Mitchell Porter-Keel. For the third year running SPAL has been involved with the UK's top agricultural university to develop engineering talent. Explaining the motivation behind the scholarship, Matthew Morris says: "In establishing this Scholarship, we look to the next generation of engineers for fresh ideas and new approaches to mitigating environmental impact."
